

Real Issues. Real People. Real New Mexico.

In this week's episode of Inside New Mexico, Steve talks about:

- The verdict in the Rittenhouse trial.
- The NM Supreme Court decision on petitions to convene citizen grand juries to investigate the Governor over her pandemic policies.
- President Biden and Vice President Harris's falling poll numbers.
- The continued fallout after leaving Afghanistan.
- The pushback on vaccine mandates.
- Colorado's governor who called out Gov. Lujan Grisham over mask mandates and how more of our freedoms have become at risk.

Host Derek Underhill interviews New Mexico Senate Republican Leader Greg Baca about the NM Supreme Court's ruling that stopped Gov. Lujan Grisham from spending federal relief funds. Democratic state lawmakers joined Baca in a lawsuit, arguing that the legislature is the branch of government that allocates funds as decreed in the state Constitution. The Court agreed. Baca also talks about the upcoming legislative session and the importance of addressing crime.
