STATEMENT: House GOP Leader celebrates New Mexican workers

“What usually gets lost in the Governor joyously announcing she is handing out cash to anyone and everyone during an election year, is that this money comes from the oil and gas industry that she, her out-of-state donors, and many progressive legislators want to shut down,” said House Republican Leader Jim Townsend (Artesia). “Progressives like Lujan Grisham will parade around this year handing out New Mexicans tax dollars while forgetting to thank the people across the state who work hard every day and keep the economy going. I think we need to applaud the people of New Mexico for waking up every day, despite the bleak and despotic policies of Lujan Grisham, keeping our state moving forward and economy going. We are nearing two-years of one politician usurping all authority and not involving The People’s representative government in any meaningful way. I see and hear many Democratic colleagues and voters waking up to the reality that this administration is only after headlines and attention, not actually serving and uplifting the people of New Mexico.”
