

RPNM PRE-PRIMARY STATE CONVENTION VOTING RESULTS FINAL

Albuquerque, February 28--The Republican Party of New Mexico would like to confirm that the voting results at its Pre-Primary State Convention in Ruidoso on Saturday are final, and the election is over. There's been speculation that some votes were not included, and this is a falsehood. State Delegates used paper ballots, and all ballots were counted accurately and appropriately. The entire process was under the supervision of the Party's Tabulation Chair, Amy Barela.

"I know with 100% certainty that the tallying of the ballots was exact and done with extreme precision and accuracy," said Barela. "We had well-organized teams working diligently and carefully, and some campaigns had representatives observing the counting and certification of the paper ballots. The entire process demonstrated transparency and precision and again shows RPNM's commitment to election integrity."
